

Partnerships Manager – Education Specialist

FULL TIME | LOCATION: Sydney and surrounding area | TRAVEL REQUIRED

Are you an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander educator who's passionate about building relationships, facilitating learning and supporting teachers to grow their knowledge and confidence?

ABOUT AUSTRALIANS TOGETHER

Australians Together is a not-for-profit organisation. We're a passionate and diverse group of First Nations people and non-Indigenous people who want to see lived experiences of First Nations people improved. We recognise there's a wound in the spirit of our nation, and for healing to take place, we need to work together. Our staff, consultants and collaborators are located across Australia, and we respectfully learn from, and partner with, First Nations cultural and community Elders and leaders, academics and educators.

WORKING WITH US

Australians Together is a remote organisation, and our team works from home across Australia. For this role, we're looking for someone based in Sydney or the surrounding area, as regular travel to schools, partners and events will be required.

We're looking for someone who is comfortable working autonomously but genuinely enjoys being part of a team. Someone who brings their knowledge and experience to the work, is open to shared learning, and believes in the importance of helping educators build their confidence to meaningfully embed First Nations perspectives.

THE ROLE

As a Partnerships Manager – Education Specialist, you'll use your education experience and understanding of schools, teachers and classroom practice to build strong and meaningful partnerships within the education sector.

You'll work with existing partners as well as identify and develop new relationships with schools, education networks and key stakeholders. You'll help educators understand how Australians Together's resources, workshops and partnerships can support their teaching and learning.

A key part of your role will be facilitating professional learning and workshops for educators. You'll help teachers move from understanding why First Nations perspectives matter to knowing how they can meaningfully and confidently embed them into classroom practice.

With your teaching experience, you'll support other Partnership Managers with coaching, guidance and resources so they feel confident engaging with educators and facilitating Australians Together workshops.

ABOUT YOU

You're a First Nations educator who understands what teaching looks like day to day. You understand the opportunities and challenges teachers can experience when embedding Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander perspectives into their teaching and can support educators to build their knowledge and confidence.

You're also a natural relationship builder. You enjoy connecting with people, listening to what they need and finding practical ways to support them.

YOU'LL BRING

- A tertiary qualification in Education
- Current or recent classroom teaching experience
- Confidence facilitating learning for teachers, school leaders and other adult audiences
- Strong relationship building, stakeholder engagement and communication skills
- An understanding of how teachers plan, deliver and assess learning across different school contexts
- Knowledge of current teaching trends, curriculum requirements and education-related issues
- An understanding of the challenges non-Indigenous teachers can experience when embedding Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander perspectives
- Knowledge of effective teaching, learning and professional development practices
- The ability to coach and support colleagues and share your expertise in an approachable way
- Experience in partnership development, relationship management and growth
- Strong project management and organisational skills, with the ability to manage competing priorities
- Excellent written and verbal communication skills
- Experience using CRM systems and Microsoft applications.
- An understanding of the Australian Curriculum Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Histories and Cultures cross-curriculum priority and the AITSL Standards
